THE FRONT & ULSTER

Why We Stand By The Loyalists

by Steve Brady

THE NATIONAL FRONT is the only British mainland political party which has always unwaveringly stood by the Ulster Loyalists.

For over twenty years our Party has campaigned, and our members have faced violent assault, arrest and media vilification, in defence of British Ulster. No other nationwide political organisation has done as much for so long. Why do we do it?

We do it because it is right to stand by Ulster in principle because Ulster is British, part of our country, her people bonded indissolubly to the rest of us by a sacred bond of blood and of honour. On battlefield after battlefield, in war after war, Ulstermen have laid down their lives willingly for Britain. Most of those battles were not Ulster's battles, most of those wars were not Ulster's wars — yet to Ulster, Britain's fight was and is Ulster's fight.

COMMITMENT

But what has the National Front to offer the Loyalist cause? Simply our total commitment to the people of Ulster by supporting their cause with our campaign on the mainland.

★ Pro-Ulster slogans bedeck the walls of towns from Brighton to Bristol and Birmingham to Barking. Who put them there? The National Front.

★ IRA marchers are physically opposed on the streets of Sheffield, Birmingham and London. By whom? The National Front.

★ Thousands of 'Stand by Loyal Ulster' leaflets have been dropping on doormats all over the mainland in the last few months. Who put them there? The National Front.

★ Ulster's case has been argued, and fought for, all over England, Wales and Scotland for twenty years. Who's been doing it? The National Front.

★ Who are the biggest, best organised propaganda machine Ulster has got outside the Province? The National Front.

PERISH

The National Front is mobilising support for Ulster on the mainland because if Ulster does not win the support of the rest of the British people then sooner or later, the Union will be broken and Ulster will perish. For Ulster cannot forever stand alone and that is why the National Front Stands By Ulster!

It is only the National Front who confront the supporters of the IRA when they march on the streets of the mainland.

Black Broadcasting Corporation

THE BBC has asked its Drama Unit to "pay particular attention to new ethnic scriptwriters". However this has caused a bit of a headache as one script editor moaned: "How do you tell the colour of a writer from a script? I suppose we could ring them up and ask them, or listen for the trace of an accent, or perhaps we could make calculated guesses".

He continues: "If the worst comes to the worst we may just have to rely on the old method of settling for the best written, most entertaining scripts, regardless."

Heading for Bankruptcy

JACQUES DELORS, the EEC commission president, has sent a stern letter to all European leaders warning them that the Common Market is heading for bankruptcy by October.

He said in the letter that either tough cuts in spending must be introduced or the common agricultural policy be radically reformed.

However, the EEC, being the bureaucratic beast that it is, is unlikely to make a decision about its possible bankruptcy in October until its next summit in December!

As far as the National Front is concerned the sooner the Common Market collapses the better. The EEC has been a disaster for Britain and that's why, back in 1974, the NF campaigned vigorously for a "NO" vote in the referendum about Common Market membership. And that's why today the National Front is still campaigning to get Britain out.

Dudley hears the history of the Front

JOE PEARCE was the guest speaker at the July meeting of the Dudley branch of the National Front.

Speaking on the history of the National Front, Joe addressed an audience of more than thirty members, confirmation of the steady growth of the National Front in the West Midlands.

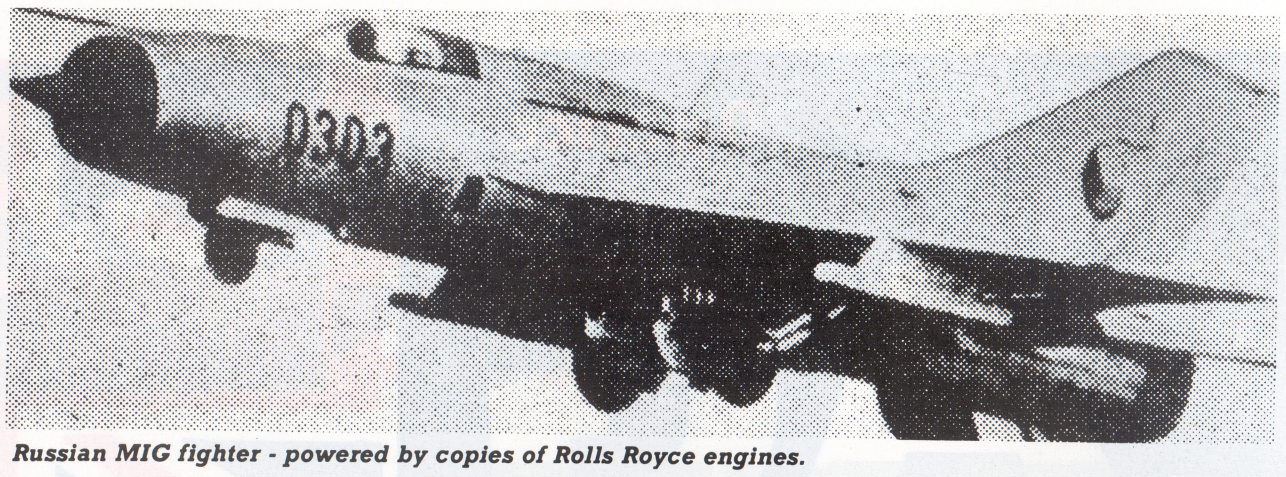
Not learning the lessons of Chernobyl

BRITAIN'S Nuclear Installations Inspectorate cannot properly assess the lessons of the Chernobyl disaster because of a chronic shortage of staff.

Eddy Ryder, HM Chief Inspector of Nuclear Installations, said in May that the staff shortage meant inspectors were not getting enough training or keeping sufficiently abreast of international developments in nuclear safety.

"I wish I had more staff to ensure that we were digesting the lessons of Chernobyl," he added.



Russian MIG fighter - powered by copies of Rolls Royce engines.

Russians 'stole' Rolls Royce Jet Engines

DOCUMENTS LEFT behind by the late Whitney Straight, former Chairman of Rolls Royce, reveal that Rolls Royce lost millions of pounds because the Soviet Union illegally copied the designs of their engines.

This story started in 1946 when Clement Attlee's Labour government allowed Rolls Royce to sell Moscow 55 jet engines. Within a few years the Russians had illegally copied the designs and were turning them out by the thousand - proof that yet again Russian technology had been lagging behind the West until Britain obligingly supplied such advanced technology.

Subsequently MIG15 fighter planes powered by such 'Rolls Royce copies' were being used all over the world by Soviet allies including China and some middle eastern countries.

EEC = AIDS

COMMON MARKET countries are not allowed to stop Aids carriers from crossing their borders!

The EEC has decided that attempts by West Germany to close its borders to foreigners carrying the Aids virus are a breach of Common Market law.

The trouble began in May when West German Interior Minister Friedrich Zimmermann ordered his country's border police to turn back foreign Aids carriers. This apparently common-sense measure brought an angry response from Common Market officials. 'It is clear that this is not compatible with Community law,' an EEC Commission official complained. 'It blatantly flouts the spirit and the letter of the EEC treaty.'

Regardless of complaints by Common Market bureaucrats, The FLAG wholeheartedly supports the common sense measures taken by Germany to combat the Aids menace. Furthermore, Britain should follow Germany's lead and ban all foreign Aids carriers itself.

As for 'the EEC Treaty' we say stuff Common Market laws. Better still stuff the Common Market. A Britain free from the EEC is a Britain a step nearer to being free from Aids also.

POLLUTION

The Cost of Cleaning Up.

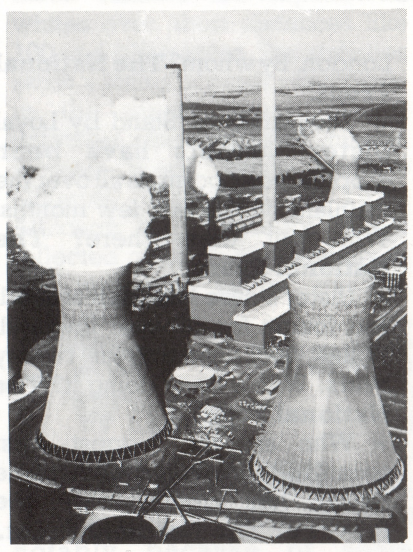
THE COST of reducing pollution from British power stations will total more than £1 billion by the end of the century, according to Dr Peter Chester an environmental spokesman for the Central Electricity Generating Board.

Dr Chester gave the costing on 9th June when he outlined the CEGB's planned programme to install equipment on new and existing power stations which will effectively remove almost one million tonnes of sulphur dioxide from the atmosphere by the year 2000.

Since sulphur dioxide is the chemical responsible for acid rain the CEGB's clean-up programme is most welcome. However, it represents too little being done too slowly.

In fact, Britain has one of the slowest clean-up programmes in northern Europe. For example, West Germany will be spending £2.5 billion by 1989 which makes Britain's £1 billion by 2000 sound pathetic by comparison.

Penny-pinchers will argue that no more money is available to clean up the environment. They will plead that the British tax-payer is overburdened already. Indeed he is, but not because of worthwhile expenditure like efforts to reduce acid rain. The British tax-payer is overburdened because of the billions spent on 'foreign aid' to ethnic minorities in Britain's inner-cities and huge subsidies to the EEC. Compared with the unnecessary expenditure, the paltry £1 billion allocated to reduce pollution is a mere drop in the ocean.



CEGB's clean-up programme represents too little being done too slowly and too late.

EDUCATION & TRAINING IN BIRMINGHAM

STEVE BRADY, Chairman of the NF's Education and Training Dept. was the main speaker at a seminar in Central Birmingham on Sunday 28th June.

15 hand-picked promising NF youngers from the city also heard talks from Tom Acton, Chairman of the NF Publicity Dept. and Branch Development Officer, Joe Pearce.

West Midlands Regional Organiser, John Hill, explained to those present the NF's target ward policy for fighting local elections.

End of the Road for the Man who sold out his Country!

IAN SMITH resigned recently as president of the Conservative Alliance of Zimbabwe, formerly the Rhodesian Front, which declared independence from Britain in 1965.

Mr Smith gave his reason for resigning as follows: "I decided I was not prepared to subject an already harassed White community to still more blatantly racialist intimidation and recrimination."

Ian Smith had been the dominant political figure in Rhodesia until he handed his country over to Robert Mugabe's black Marxist dictatorship in 1980. Prior to his resignation, which probably signals the end of his political career, he had been suspended from Zimbabwe's black-majority Parliament for holding 'dissident' views.

Considering that Ian Smith was responsible for selling out his Rhodesian fellow countrymen, condemning them to a black Marxist future, it is only right that he also should fall victim to the dictatorship he helped create.

It's time charity began at Home

BRITAIN is to provide Mozambique with an extra £15 million in foreign aid.

The aid is dependent on Mozambique signing an agreement with the International Monetary Fund.

So it is that the British government continues to pump money into Marxist dictatorships in Africa.

Meanwhile, the education system, the national health service and British industry are all suffering from further Government cuts. It is surely time that British governments learned that charity begins at home.

INTO THE FRAY

HARINGEY'S LABOUR council planned to kick the Middlesex Regiment museum out of its long-time home in Bruce Castle in Tottenham. Bruce Castle is designed to house displays illustrating the history of Haringey.

They planned to replace it with an exhibition showing the achievements of ethnic minorities in the borough. A small exhibition, you might think, and you'd be right.

Into the fray rushed Haringey National Front. The National Front was able to embarrass the Labour Party by reminding the local populace that it was a Labour government that sent the Middlesex Regiment to Korea in support of the United Nations forces. Local and national press were inundated with press releases giving the facts of the pacifist-communist, pro-Republican nature of the modern Labour Party. An instant response leaflet was distributed in the ward of Labour councillor Philip Jones, prime mover in this sinister conspiracy.

Newspapers as diverse as the Daily Telegraph and the Sunday People took up the story and now the Council is in full retreat. The Middlesex Regiment museum will stay and its displays will be improved.

This episode shows that it is possible to inflict a major defeat on the Left by a vigorous response to enemy action, and intelligent use of the Branch's resources.

WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS IN STORE

The Text Of An Agreement Between The National Front And The British National Party.

Preamble.

This Agreement respects the independence of the two Parties and nothing herein affects the right of each Party to determine its own membership, make its own policies and devise its own strategy.

The Agreement.

1. That a Liaison Committee be established comprising four members appointed by and from each Party and that one of those four members from each Party will be Joint Chairman. Although each Party will choose its four members, the Joint Chairmen must be acceptable to both Parties. The sovereignty of each Party will be ensured by the ineligibility of the chief officers (Chairman/Leader) of the two Parties for membership of the Liaison Committee.
2. The Committee's functions will be:

a) to decide which Party should contest particular seats in Parliamentary and local government elections in order to avoid more than one Nationalist candidate contesting any single vacancy;
b) in the long term to devise some objective criteria according to which decisions might be made as to which Party should contest particular seats;
c) to discuss the ideologies, policies and strategies of the two Parties in order that we might determine the extent to which the differences between the Parties are real or apparent;
d) to plan one or more joint national activities this year (1987) on issues on which the Parties are agreed.

3. Each Party will encourage its constituent branches to develop fraternal relations with branches of the other Party, in order that they might stage some joint activities and invite members of the other Party to its meetings.
4. Each Party will allow its branches to allow the distribution of the other Party's publications at its meetings.

Sunday 5th July. All's well at the Lane.

BRICK LANE

BRICK LANE, East London, is probably the oldest National Front sales pitch in the country. It has been held against successive attacks by assorted Red and other groups over a large number of years.

On two recent Sunday mornings our paper sellers have been intimidated by a small lunatic fringe group. On the first occasion two sellers of The Flag were surrounded by about 15 members of this group who attempted to provoke a fight. When the two paper sellers offered to "take them on one at a time" the fifteen suddenly found their shoes to be of overwhelming interest.

On Sunday 29th June the same group attempted the same trick and followed it up with an attempt to intimidate NF members after the sale had finished and as our sellers were drinking in a nearby pub. However after such intense provocation a group of about 12 members saw off this bunch of cowards.

The National Front does not believe in violence but it does believe in the right of self defence against such cowardly groups. We trust that the more intelligent members of this other group will now see their leaders for what they are.

S.E.A.T. CAMPAIGN

LITERALLY THOUSANDS OF British people are on the dole because the government has, yet again, sold us out to the Common Market.

This year over 100,000 Spanish cars will pour into Britain. Spain will allow in just 7,000 British cars. Cars coming into Britain attract just a 4% tax. Cars entering Spain encounter a 30% tariff.

The biggest Spanish car firm SEAT is now exporting its Ibiza and Malaga models through the agency of SEAT Concessionaires (UK), which is a subsidiary of the infamous Lonrho company. Lonrho's Chairman is 'Tiny' Rowlands, well known for his friendship with sundry African dictators including Robert Mugabe.

FRONT PICKET WEST END DEALER

Wykehams of Kensington who used to be famous for servicing Morgan Cars are now the main West End dealer for S.E.A.T. cars from Spain. Sales from this garage now help to put British car workers on the dole.

ON Saturday 4th July a small contingent of London NF members picketed the main SEAT car dealer in the West End of London. Turning up with placards and leaflets this group stood outside the car showroom to show to the local people our opposition to the importation of Spanish SEAT cars. While only a few thousand British cars are allowed into Spain under a quota system, and then they attract a high import tax, Britain is about to be deluged with these Spanish made cars with almost no import tax.

While many members of the public were very friendly and expressed interest in and support for our campaign, the manager of the car showroom was not so happy. After attempting to tear up our leaflets he called the police. When the local inspector duly arrived he took the name and address of the organiser and then seemed quite happy to keep an eye on cars parked on yellow lines (including a nearby SEAT car).

As well as distributing several hundred leaflets a number of copies of The Flag were sold in this area of Kensington where National Front members are not normally active. This campaign has got off to a good start and a number of other activities are now being organised.

LIBRARIES TO TAKE NF PAPERS

by Mike Harris

WIRRAL Labour Party members are fuming after losing the first stage of their battle to deny the National Front their right to display literature in local libraries.

The battle began when Wirral Branch members noticed several left-wing periodicals displayed in Birkenhead Library. The local committee then decided to apply to the council so that the National Front publications The Flag and Vanguard could be displayed for the sake of a balanced opinion.

Mr Brian Lucas who is in charge of Wirral's Dept. of Leisure and Tourism and responsible for such matters, said that "It is our policy to display all lawful literature". This view has been supported by the Tory and Alliance councillors who say that they are "opposed to censorship".

However, the Labour Party, well known for its stands in favour of blacks, Gays Lesbians and communists has decided that it is in favour of censoring genuine British opinions such as those expressed in National Front publications, and will fight not to allow the NF their rights. Especially vociferous was Wirral Branch's old friend, Andrew Davies, who says that he will personally remove NF literature from libraries if it is allowed to be displayed.

With the council committee voting in favour of the National Front, against the wishes of the Labour Party, we await the final outcome with interest.

Factories to close as British TV firm sells out to the Frogs

BRITAIN'S LEADING supplier of television sets is to pass into foreign ownership.

It was announced on June 18th that Thorn EMI has agreed to sell Ferguson, its television manufacturing subsidiary, to Thomson, the French electronics group, for £90 million.

The sale followed the disposal earlier in June of Thorn EMI's domestic and commercial appliances division to Electrolux of Sweden for £42 million.

Ferguson employs around 4,200 people and has factories at Enfield in north London, Gosport in Hampshire and High Wycombe in Buckinghamshire. A spokesman for Ferguson's new French owners admitted that job cuts or closures were a possibility in the future.

Once again, a chunk of British industry has passed into foreign ownership threatening the livelihoods and future of even more British workers.

Ferguson's new foreign owners have no reason to care about the future of British workers or British industry. They will happily close down their British factories and set them up in France or the Third World if it makes them bigger profits.

Such a system of ownership is totally unacceptable. British industry must be owned by British workers.

'Flagging Out' threatens Britain

ON SATURDAY 30th May a collision took place in the English Channel between a Liberian registered tanker and a Polish cargo vessel. Mr Derek Bond, the Assistant General Secretary of the marine officers' union NUMAST said:-

"We would repeat our warning that as the British fleet declines and more and more foreign ships carry our goods, and as the general standard of those ships declines, so the prospect of collisions and groundings around our shores increases".

More and more of the "flagging out" is being carried out by shipowners to cut wages and costs. Safety rules are sometimes almost non-existent leading to the dangers described above and the consequent danger to life and the danger of pollution of our seas and beaches.

CHICHESTER SALE

The City's 'Trade War' bluff to gain access to the Tokyo Stock Exchange!

IN THE May issue of The Flag we reported on the possibility of a "Trade War" with Japan. While every other newspaper and journal said that this might come about because of Japanese imports only The Flag claimed that the real reason was quite different. We claimed that the real reason was because Japan would not let international financial institutions operate in Japan.

We predicted that: "As soon as the Japanese toe the line on this issue they will be allowed to continue exporting their radios, televisions, cars, computers, etc. to Britain and other European countries."

Only The Flag made this prediction.

On 26th May it was announced that ten British firms were among seventeen foreign financial institutions which would be allowed to operate in Japan. These "British" firms include: Rothschild Asset Management Japan, Schroder Investment Management, Barings, SG Warburg and Kleinwort Benson.

Mr Michael Howard, the Minister for Corporate and Consumer Affairs, said that he was optimistic that Britain would not have to carry out the threatened sanctions against Japan in the light of these developments. He also said that he expected British firms to have access to the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

Not a mention of the imports of Japanese goods which were meant to be the reason for the sanctions in the first place.

Exactly as we predicted the whole sabre-rattling exercise had absolutely nothing to do with imports - it was the big international financial houses using the British government to hand out a warning to the Japanese to let them operate in Japan. What does Britain get out of this - a pat on the head from the Rothschilds, Warburgs, Kleinwort Bensons of this world. Meanwhile the imports continue to come rolling in and the unemployment queues continue to get longer.

TORIES: Soft-Pedalling on Drug-Peddling

THIS YEAR has seen a further dramatic rise in the number of people turning from smoking heroin to injecting it.

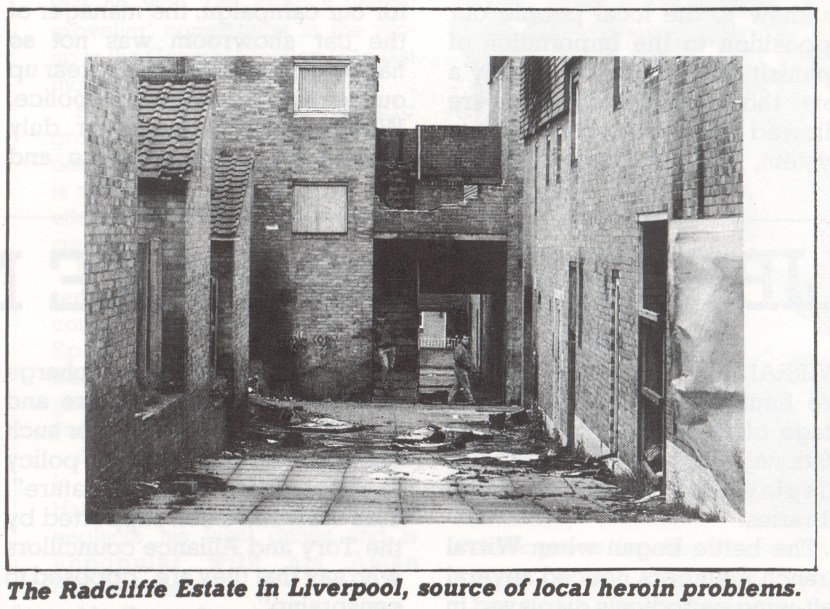
The rise comes in spite of the much-publicised 'Heroin Screws You Up' advertising campaign and the continual warnings that there is a considerable risk of contracting Aids through shared needles.

The increase in the number of people injecting heroin and amphetamines over recent months is worrying drug advice workers.

'It is terribly distressing and depressing,' Jane Goodsir, the director of Release, the drugs advice and information agency, said. 'We are getting increasing reports that more and more people are injecting heroin. Many are those who began smoking heroin a few years ago and have moved on. It is building up serious problems for the future.'

Official figures for 1985, the last available, put the number of known heroin users at 8,819. However, the Home Office now accepts privately that the real figure today is probably close to 50,000.

While the Conservative Government spend millions of pounds of taxpayers money on largely ineffective advertising campaigns, the drug-pushers, those dealers in death who prey on the young and impressionable, are getting away scot-free. Quite simply, the Tories are soft-pedalling on drug-pushing.



The Radcliffe Estate in Liverpool, source of local heroin problems.

As usual, the National Front, and the National Front alone, has the policies needed to solve the drugs problem at source. NF policy states quite clearly that 'persons, who manufacture, import and distribute lethal drugs in large quantities as a commercial enterprise should be subject to the death penalty.'

Death to the dealers in death!

Police attacked as Loyalist marches start up in Ulster

A POLICEMAN was shot dead in Newcastle, County Down, last night after a day of violence at the start of the Loyalist marching season in Northern Ireland.

RIGHT: A victim of IRA terror. The Independent (ABOVE) misleads the public to smear the Loyalists.

THIS SICK piece of gutter journalism appeared in a recent edition of The Independent.

From reading the article it appears that a policeman was shot dead because of Loyalist marches.

The truth is somewhat different.

Loyalist parades took place in various parts of Ulster with relatively little trouble. Certainly nobody was seriously hurt. At the same time, the IRA shot dead a policeman in cold blood in Newcastle, County Down, miles away from any Loyalist parade.

This being so, a more truthful headline would read: "IRA Gun Down Policeman As Loyalists Parade Peacefully".

But then truthful reporting has never been top of Fleet Street's list of priorities so perhaps we shouldn't be too surprised at The Independent's twisting of the facts.

NEWS ON SUNDAY: A Red Rag That's full of BULL!

THE NEWS On Sunday was put into receivership after a board meeting on June 16th. The decision was taken after it was revealed that the paper is only selling 230,000 copies, and is losing £130,000 a week.

Ironically for an avowedly 'red' journal it has only kept going since its launch in April because of the generosity of Owen Oyston, a millionaire property tycoon. Mr Oyston has pumped more than £300,000 into the paper.

The reason for the News On Sunday's failure to capture a large enough readership to survive is simple. The British working class have nothing in common with the multi-racial and Marxist views expressed in the paper and, as such, they are not buying it.

This failure by News On Sunday to reach the ordinary working class was admitted just six weeks after its launch when the paper went 'upmarket'. The reason for the move 'upmarket' was a recognition on the part of those who run the paper that the working class just weren't buying it.

Owen Oyston, property tycoon, pumped £300,000 into the paper.

Instead the papers are being bought by young white collar workers, teachers, social workers, local government employees, and committed Labour-voting members of the so-called "caring professions". It is not, insiders admit, being bought by blue collar workers.

In short, News On Sunday's twelve-point anti-racist and anti-sexist editorial policy has little in common with the working class, who are both racist and 'sexist'. Neither are editorials such as the one which openly supported the IRA likely to find many sympathisers in the British working class.

The truth is that News On Sunday is only being bought by the Marxist middle class because modern Marxism is middle class!

Heartbreak: The stark reality of a multi-racial society.

MULTI-RACIAL MURDER

MORE THAN a dozen people were killed and nearly thirty injured when Sikh terrorists opened fire on unsuspecting civilians in the Indian capital on June 13th.

The worst incident occurred in the suburb of Greater Kailash, where two young Sikhs with grenades and sten guns burst in on a birthday party at a private house, killing five guests and injuring nearly twenty.

On the same day, in bordering Pakistan, six people were treated for bullet, knife and stone injuries and 44 were arrested after the latest in a series of race riots in Karachi, Pakistan's largest city.

Meanwhile, in Sri Lanka, Tamils and Sinhalese were butchering each other in outbursts of racial hatred and in Fiji tensions remained high following the recent coup by Fijians who resent the growing influence of Indian immigrants.

Two obvious conclusions can be drawn from this racial hatred Asian-style. Firstly, it shows that Asians are far less tolerant of 'ethnic minorities' than are British people in this country. Secondly, it demonstrates the stark reality that multi-racial societies breed racial hatred.

More Racial Strife

FOUR MEN, including a policeman, have been held for trying to incite racial clashes in Singapore on the anniversary of riots in 1969 between Chinese and Malays.

Singapore authorities said in June that the four men had spread rumours and placed 'charms' on weapons in anticipation of racial strife.

NATIONALIST UNITY

NOT AT ANY COST

"They're all good Nationalists" is a favourite saying of those within Britain's assorted patriotic political groups who desire to see a merger to create a united Nationalist party for our country.

No doubt these people will be very heartened by The Agreement drawn up by Stanley Clayton Garnett of the British National Party and our own Joe Pearce of the National Front for greater co-operation between the two parties. In fact all British Nationalists should be heartened by this agreement.

But of course, not all Nationalists are good. In fact there are those Nationalists who are nothing but an embarrassment to the thousands of National Front members in Britain. Over the years the NF has made great strides in removing these embarrassments from our ranks.

1987 sees the NF rid of those who, in the past, had tainted the National Front by their ridiculous obsessions with a foreign and discredited creed. Gone are those individuals who yearned for and that alien philosophy. Gone also are those who conducted themselves in a manner that bought ridicule and embarrassment to their fellow members by their brazen cavorting, more akin to the Gay Lobby associated with London's numerous Marxist councils tha the family-committed National Front. And, most important of all, gone are the schoolboy Stalinists who thought they could change the National Front into their own personal property giving them a meal-ticket for life. They tried to change the face of our political party by inflicting on the membership their programme of abandonment of our Race Policy in a pathetic effort to gain the acceptance of Britain's multitude of Left-Wing organisations.

Nationalist unity by all means, but we must never, never undo the good work done by allowing such people back into our ranks.

The National Front is Britain's only real Nationalist political party. We welcome those genuine Nationalists who care about Britain to join us in our crusade. We even acknowledge the commitment of those Nationalists who wish to stay on the fringes and support the British National Party, and The Agreement with the BNP shows our acceptance of this.

But we must never return to the days of the late seventies when the efforts of thousands of NF members were destroyed by the predictable revelations published by our enemies in the media of the past antics of the then leadership of the party.

Never again must our canvassers on the doorstep be confronted by that undeniable statement 'But I've seen pictures of your leaders in uniform'.

Nationalist Unity Yes, but not at any cost.

THE TED BUDDEN COLUMN

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

WELL, the Great Election Debate is over. The people have spoken - in their usual semi-literate, half-witted fashion.

Once again the politics of greed have triumphed over the politics of envy.

Despite the extravagant claims made by a confectionery company that their chocolate bars are "packed with peanut power", it seems that peanut power is a highly overrated commodity.

Certainly, ace political peanut Neil Kinnock fared little better than shambling, doddering, scruffbag Michael Foot did in the previous election. Perhaps the slickest commercial campaign ever staged for a political party was the reason. The adman's image of Kinnock as a dynamic and thrusting yet compassionate tower of strength, always captured in a good light, in best profile, with jaw thrust out, contrasted starkly with the snivelling ratbag and vacillating opportunistic teleperson that we all know him to be. So the Labour campaign looked dishonest.

The Tory advertising campaign, on the other hand, made the Tories look shifty and inept and self-seeking. Since everyone knows that this is exactly what they are, they appeared honest by comparison.

All the candidates expressed their determination to 'debate the issues' - the issues, it seems, being solely concerned with the best ways of spending someone else's money.

Strangely, one fairly important issue was entirely overlooked, namely the 'Multiracial Society'. In spite of the recent examples in Fiji, in Sri Lanka, in India, in Mauritius, in Madagascar, in S. Africa, in East Africa and other places too numerous too mention, that the 'multiracial society' doesn't work, cannot work, and never has worked, I cannot recall the subject receiving even a passing mention.

It appears that all parties regard the 'multi-racial society', that crackpot brainchild of demented social engineers, as a sort of holy grail to be sought no matter what the cost in terms of money and loss of civil liberties. All seem to regard as blasphemy the lesson of experience that this holy grail is, in reality, a leaky old rust bucket.

I was so struck by this strange omission that I wrote letters to the newspapers about it. You will not be surprised to learn that they were not published. But then, like me, you believe in the conspiracy of silence.

We paranoiacs do, don't we?

BELATED

WHENEVER I hear a news report of mayhem engaged in by 'gangs of mainly black youths', my mind's eye irresistibly conjures up an image of black persons with white pin stripes or polka dots. But that is by the way. The point is that these pin-striped or polka dotted samboids were at it again just the other day.

Nothing unusual about that - it's all due to inner city deprivation and the long hot summer. They're alienated, you see - not surprisingly since they are aliens after all.

This latest manifestation of the multi-racial society in action, this time in the Chapeltown area of Leeds, might be thought to be just another news item except for the fact that this is the summer silly season when hot news is as scarce as veracity in Fleet Street. One might have expected the newshawks to have been on the story like a shot.

Yet, strangely, although the riot started on Sunday evening, I wasn't allowed to know of it until the following Tuesday evening. All very puzzling. Why, the Pony Express could have carried the news faster. So could British Telecom - sometimes. My poor old knobbly knees could have forced my pushbike from Leeds in half the time with even the GPO not far behind.

So why the delay? Why this strange coyness on the part of the media men who report riots in South Africa quicker than you can blink - sometimes even before they happen?

Well, actually, I know why. I just wondered if you did.

HOW QUEER

ACCORDING TO the Daily Telegraph, Camden Borough Council spends £124,000 a year on its homosexual unit which employs four persons and has issued a report declaring that heterosexism is a serious problem because it 'promotes only heterosexuality and heterosexual family life as normal and natural. In the same way that racism, sexism, ableism, ageism and classism are institutionalised forms of oppression, so is heterosexism.'

My mind boggles. Dammit, even my boggles boggle.

I would defy even the greatest satirist in history to make anything of such inspired decadence. It simply is not possible to lampoon people who themselves are evil caricatures. There is nothing in fiction to match Camden's actuality.

Yet people of Camden have not risen in revolt. They have not burned the Town Hall to the ground. I wonder why?

Perhaps, as the poet Alexander Pope observed:

Vice is a monster of such frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

It seems that Camden Council is prepared to spend no end of ratepayer's money to make us all familiar with her face.

Labour: Now dependent on the Black vote

BLACK SUPPORT for the Labour Party is still strong but slipping, according to a recent poll of ethnic minority voters.

A poll carried out by the Hansib group of newspapers - Asian Times, Caribbean Times and African Times - gave Labour 72 per cent, Conservatives 18 per cent and the Alliance 10 per cent.

But surveys for the Commission for Racial Equality gave Labour stronger support in the 1979 and 1983 general elections.

The latest poll shows strongest support for Labour in the West Indian community, with Labour on 86 per cent, Conservatives 6 per cent and the Alliance 7 per cent.

However, Labour are still clear winners among Asian voters too. The poll gave Labour 67 per cent of Asian votes, the Conservatives 23 per cent and the Alliance 10 per cent.

Once one realises the huge support for Labour among ethnic minority voters, it comes as no surprise that Labour are now more interested in the Black vote than they are in the interests of the British working man.

BRITISH TAXPAYERS FUND IRISH STUDENTS

BRITAIN'S HIGHER education system is under strain with not enough places for hopeful students. The Common Market bureaucrats have now made this situation even worse by insisting that students from any Common Market counry are entitled to be educated in Britain at Britain's expense.

While, so far, we have not seen an upsurge in the numbers of French or German students, however there are literally thousands of students from Southern Ireland pouring into the U.K. particularly to universities and colleges in Ulster and Scotland. Some universities such as Dundee, Aberdeen and Edinburgh universities even send delegates to Southern Ireland to choose these students.

Many parents in Southern Ireland are actively encouraging their sons and daughters to apply for British universities because it is much cheaper to have them educated in Britain than in Eire where fees range from £825 to £1500 per year.

We have nothing against the people of Southern Ireland but why should British taxpayers pay for the education of Eire students - and more importantly why should British students be denied higher education in favour of foreign students.

County Problems

MORE THAN 4,500 schoolchildren in Northamptonshire alone who come from foreign countries can neither write nor speak English, according to a survey by a race relations committee published in May.

BUS MUGGING

SOUTH LONDON is being swept by an epidemic of 'bus muggings'.

In a recent case 20 black youths stormed on to the 36B travelling between Catford and Lewisham beating up 23 year old Peter Cronin and stealing £15.00 from his pockets.

Groveller Roy shunned by local Asians

LABOUR'S DEPUTY leader Roy Hattersley was no doubt pleased that he won The FLAG's 'ethnic groveller' competition in the run-up to the General Election (see last month's issue of The FLAG.

However, all his ethnic grovelling doesn't appear to have done poor old Roy much good. He is now at the centre of a row with ethnic minorities in his very own constituency!

Mr Mohammed Yussouf, a respected member of the Asian community in Mr Hattersley's Sparkbrook constituency in Birmingham, has resigned from his position as chairman of the Labour Party in Sparkhill ward.

Mr Yussouf's reason for quitting is simple. He claims that Mr Hattersley is an absentee MP who neglects his local duties and is unpopular with his Asian constituents!

Mr Yussouf, a member of the constituency Labour Party for the past ten years and Sparkhill chairman for three months, claimed Asian constituents had been neglected by Mr Hattersley. He said that thirty or forty other members of the local Labour Party may follow him in quitting.

He said: 'Roy Hattersley has no respect for the Asian community and has proved to be a very bad constituency MP neglecting his duties for the high-life in London.'

Mr Hattersley must have found Mr Yussouf's comments very embarrassing, especially in the light of all his pathetic efforts to ingratiate himself with 'ethnic minority' voters. At least he can be comforted by the fact that The FLAG appreciates his ethnic grovelling even if the Asians don't!

Freeing the Airwaves: Assaulting the Ears!

by Martin French

SWICHING the television from channel to channel on Tuesday evening, 23rd June, I came across Channel Four's five-minute programme called "Comments".

Tonight's speaker was one of our old, most respected (sic) friends, Tony Blackburn, who was speaking about freeing the air waves for local specialised radio stations to legally broadcast music and community programme to the local public.

Blackburn: Reggae Groveller.

Fine, I thought, until he continued with his Lord Scarman type speech about giving Blacks, Asians and Greeks their rights to have their own radio stations in Britain, also adding how wonderful and well supported the Soul and Reggae stations in London were.

Not once did he mention any type of British music, or even Radio Caroline which was broadcasting free music to Britain long before Soul and Reggae stations were even thought about.

I suggest that if Mr Blackburn feels the British people need enriching by this foreign music, maybe he should move to a block of flats in Brixton and get enriched himself, 24 hours of the day, seven days of the week.

Nationalist Pursuit — Livening up branch meetings

NEWHAM National Front decided to liven up its Branch meetings recently. Consequently at its last meeting, rather than having a guest speaker one of their members brought along a nationalist version of the game 'Trivial Pursuit'.

A small prize was offered for the winner and a pleasant and amusing evening was had by all. As a result of the enthusiasm generated, the meeting collection raised a total of £38.00 which is better than it had been recently.

Newham is intending to show a video film at its next meeting.

If any other branch would like to try this game it can be obtained complete with a set of instructions from Freedom Books, BCM Newpat, London WC1N 3XX, price £2.50 inc. postage.

Christian Rock: Faith or Fad

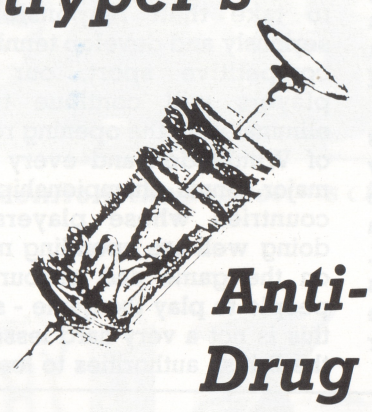
MANY PEOPLE think that the last place they would expect to find practising Christians is among Heavy Rock groups. However, strange as it may seem there are now a number of bands openly proclaiming that they hold Christian beliefs; while at the same time being dedicated to playing Rock music.

This is at present largely an American phenomenon, the only real example of a British Christian Rock band were the now defunct 'After The Fire', who released a fine album Laser Love' back in 1979.

The most prominent Christian Rock Bands on the American scene are Stryper and Barren Cross. Stryper have so far released two albums to date, The Black And Yellow Attack 1985 and To Hell With The Devil 1987. The main focus of the band are the Sweet brothers, Robert Sweet on drums, and Michael Sweet, guitarist, vocalist and main spokesman for the band.

Stryper have been criticised by some journalists, particularly atheistic trendy Reds, as pretentious and insincere. To answer these accusations we need only to note what the band have stated publically are their views on a number of subjects. Stryper as with Iron Maiden, have constantly opposed the selling and use of hard drugs amongst young people and to show the sincerity of their feelings on this subject, donated proceeds from some of their American concerts to the Anti-drug Campaign.

Stryper's Anti-Drug Campaign



Similarly in a couple of interviews last year, Michael Sweet made the following comments on Aids. He said that 'Aids was God's punishment of a permissive society'. Finally, the group have continually stated that they believe the preservation and furtherance of the ideal of the family is essential if contemporary society is to remain healthy.

Barren Cross are a band that have been in existence for over four years, first forming in November 1983. They have to date released one album Rock For The King. The band have a similar Christian attitude to Stryper but are perhaps less outspoken to the music press about their faith. However, in May's edition of Metal Forces Heavy Metal magazine, Steve Whitaker, the group's drummer put the record straight about Barren Cross's commitment to Christianity - 'To us, Barren Cross, Christianity is something that the individual has to make a choice about . . . we speak just what we ourselves believe'.

From these examples it is clear that Christian Rock bands certainly have something to offer the average Rock fan. Their positive attitude to life portrayed in their lyrics and music, and their honest comments in interviews are a breath of fresh air compared to the negative images portrayed by so-called satanic groups. Let's hope that more bands follow their moral and healthier approach to rock music.

Egg on the Face of Liar Howell

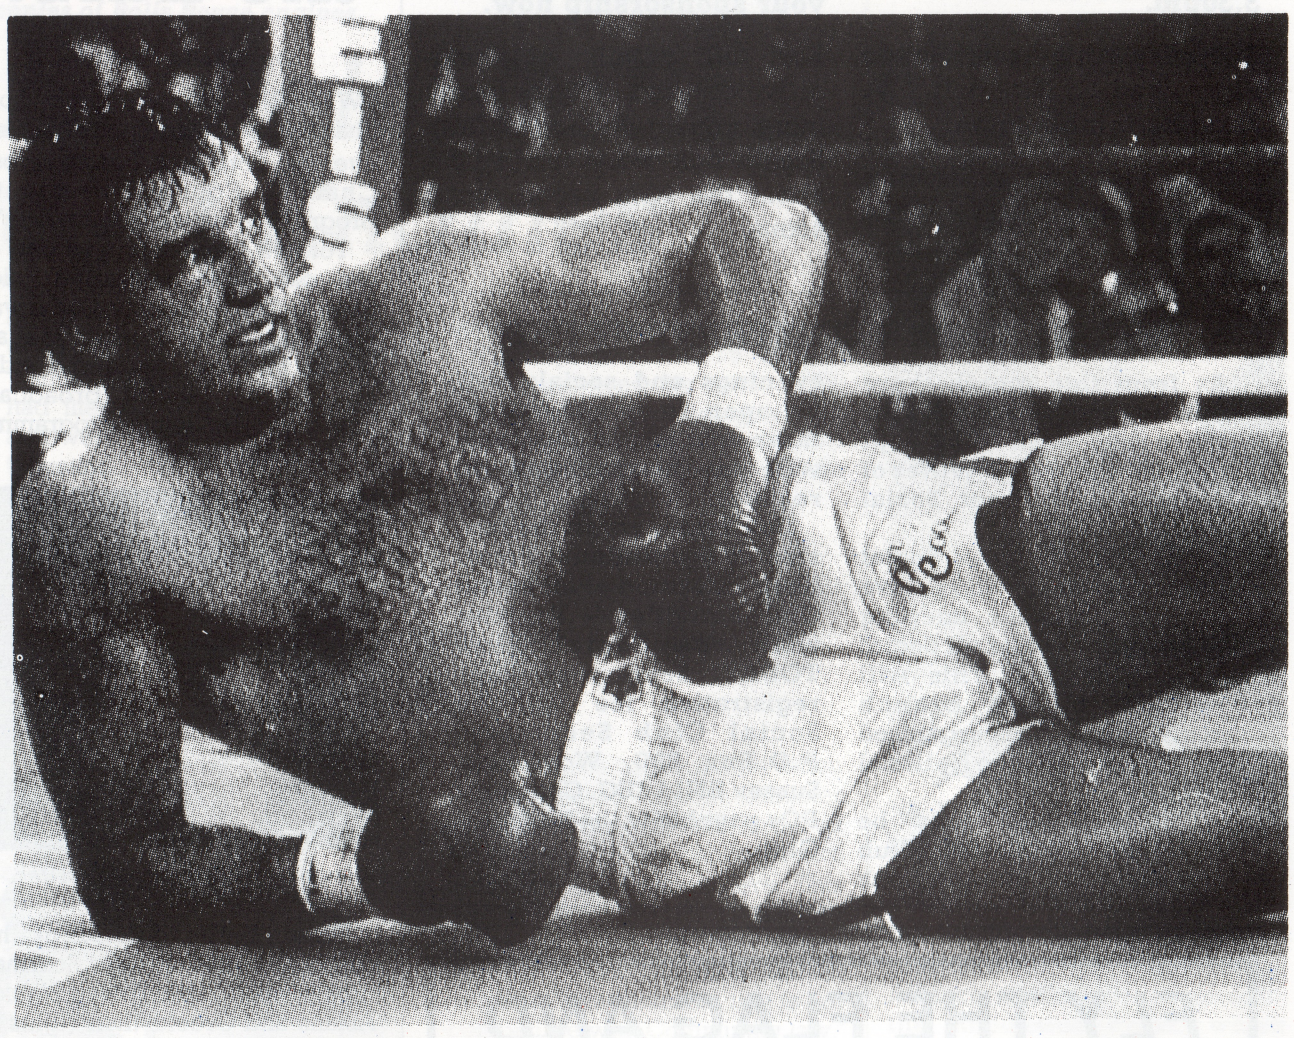
by John Hill

ON Wednesday May 27th the former Sports Minister and present Labour MP for Small Heath, Mr Denis Howell was able to tell the most vicious lies and make the most serious of allegations against the NF on B.R.M.B. radio. Mr Howell told listeners to this popular Birmingham radio station on a sports phone-in, that the NF were not only the instigators of the Heysel Stadium disaster and heavily involved in soccer violence, but also to blame for the recent violence at Edgbaston when England played Pakistan at the one-day international cricket match. The NF, of course, were not asked to reply to these vicious lies. A complaint and letters were sent to the I.B.A. and radio station though, and they are both looking into these allegations at present.

It was discovered that Mr Howell was to speak at a Labour Party Public Meeting the following Wednesday in Solihull. So, a wet Wednesday evening found four members of Birmingham NF's Instant Response Group sitting in a school hall listening politely to Mr Howell tell the audience the Labour Party's promises for the forthcoming election. After which, he asked for questions. Immediately a member of the I.R.G. asked him why he chose to lie on radio. A heated argument ensued leaving Mr Howell stuck for words, with his head bowed and mumbling. An apology was asked for which was not forthcoming, so the rather naughty act of bombarding him with eggs followed, with at least one egg finding its mark and hitting him on the chest. The I.R.G. then tactfully withdrew.

Dennis Howell

Not having the resources of the three main political parties, Birmingham NF resorted to this action to gain newspaper coverage and bring attention to the fact that Mr Howell was lying. He was not to get away with it though, for one newspaper stated, "The demonstrators' anger followed claims by Mr Howell on a radio phone-in programme that the NF had been responsible for recent violence at the one-day international cricket match".



SPINKS v COONEY

A Pyrrhic Victory for Multi-Racialism

"THE GREAT White Hopeless" sneered the headline in the Daily Mail on June 17th. "Hope Runs Out For Great White Myth" gloated The Independent's headline on the same day.

The event which gave these and other newspapers the excuse to publish derogatory comments about the White Race was Gerry Cooney's defeat at the hands of Michael Spinks in a non-title fight in Atlantic City.

In fact, Michael Spinks's victory only confirms the stranglehold which black boxers have enjoyed in the field of heavyweight boxing for the last thirty years. From Mohammed Ali and Joe Frazer through to the current world champion Mike Tyson, heavyweight champions have one thing in common. They have nearly all been black.

One can sense multi-racialists gloating over this apparent supremacy of the black race. In fact, that's exactly what the headline writers of the Mail and the Independent did! Yet all that black supremacy in heavyweight boxing proves is that the races of man are different, something which racialist organisations like the National Front have maintained all along and something which multi-racialists have sought to deny at every opportunity.

Let's look at the facts.

The truth is that racial differences are evident in many other sports besides boxing. Take athletics for instance. It is clear that, generally speaking, black runners are superior to whites over short distances like 100 and 200 metres. The statistics show a string of black champions in the men's event, almost unbroken since the great Russian sprinter Valeri Borzov became Olympic champion in 1972. Although this difference is not reflected quite so dramatically in the women's sprint events, notably because of some excellent east European athletes, the fact remains that there is a preponderence of black champions in women's sprinting as well.

The Great White Hopeless

Yet once you get to middle distance running the situation is totally reversed. Britain has enjoyed many world champions over this distance in recent years, with Steve Ovett, Sebastian Coe and Steve Cram springing to mind immediately. But there is an almost total absence of world class black athletes over 800 or 1500 metres.

This disparity between black and white can be embodied in the form of one athlete, Daley Thompson. Thompson, as world decathlon champion, is perhaps the best all-round athlete in the world. But it is no coincidence that his strongest events include the sprint events, such as the long jump and the 110 metres hurdles. Neither is it a coincidence that his weakest event in the 1500 metres.

Of course there are always exceptions to the rule. Yet, if anything, the exception proves the rule. Otherwise it wouldn't be an exception!

Thus, black marathon runners are an exception because the vast majority of good marathon runners are white. Thus, white heavyweight champion boxers are an exception because the vast majority of good heavyweight boxers are black.

All the facts bear out an irrefutable truth. In athletic ability, as in intellectual ability, there are inherent - and therefore irreversible -differences between the races of man.

Gerry Cooney's defeat in Atlantic City is further evidence that there are genetic differences between blacks and whites. And that's something multi-racialist headline writers should bear in mind before they gloat over the defeat of white athletes.

We Must Make our Tennis More Competitive!

SO ONCE again no British tennis player progressed beyond the opening rounds of Wimbledon. While we may be getting used to this sort of performance this is still no excuse. The real reason for this state of affairs is not that difficult to uncover.

While there are more tennis courts per person in Britain than in any other European country, they are almost all old and out of date. The picture becomes very stark when it is realised that Britain, despite having more courts than any other country per person, in total, has the least number of indoor covered courts.

Quite simply in Britain tennis is treated as a sporting hobby where "one might meet a suitable girl or boy" - it is not treated as a sport which is highly competitive. As a result our coaching facilities and modern equipment are abysmal compared to most other countries.

The effect is that relatively few people actually play tennis in Britain. In the UK only about 3 people in every 1,000 belong to a tennis club. In Switzerland the comparable figure is 34, in France 26, in West Germany 27, etc.

Wimbledon continues to generate a huge profit, but the tennis authorities are simply not spending this where it is needed - on developing the grass roots of the game.

Until the tennis authorities start to take their responsibilities seriously and develop tennis as a competitive sport, our best players will continue to be eliminated in the opening rounds of Wimbledon and every other major tennis championship. The countries whose players are doing well are spending money on the game and encouraging people to play the game - surely this is not a very hard lesson for the British authorities to learn.

PLANS are afoot for a National Front Football League.

Already a full team has been set up by Leeds NF who have been holding regular training sessions every Sunday morning.

It is hoped also that other teams can be set up in the North West, the West Midlands and the South during the summer. If enough teams are formed a full league season can kick off in the autumn.
